Many New Members Join Local Republican Club

After a week's work the membership committee of the Young Men's Republican club report over 500 names added to the organization and as the list will be kept in circulation all next week, several hundred additional voters will no doubt be enrolled.

The organization is meeting with success on all sides and the voters of the city are ably assisting in the work by signing as members and offering suggestions for the success of the club. In order that persons who have not been seen by the membership committee and who wish to join, may enroll, lists have been left at the Olympic billiard parlors and at Johnson's restaurant.

Huge posters have been printed and are being placed about town today calling attention to the voters to support the entire ticket at the election Tuesday, November 2.

The first of the week the reception committee hopes to make public all plans for the reception to be held here Thursday evening of next week. Quite a number of the candidates hav been seen personally by the committee and all have signified their intentions of being here on that date to meet the members of the club and all other voters of the town.

Lecture Tomorrow

Pastor Herman Boehmer of New York, will lecture Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in Kelly's hall on the subject "The Love of God."

The lecture will be under the auspices of the Associated Bible Students and the subject is one that appeals not only to Christians but to the "whole groaning creation" as well.

The "Dark Ages" have handed down to us so many false conceptions and theories about an unloving God that many are surprised to learn the Bible really contains a good message of a God of Love. If you have never heard a message that was entirely satisfying both to head and heart, come and hear Sunday's lecture and be convinced that the Bible is the most wonderful of all books.

The public cordially invited. All seats free. No collection. 1t fp

Rivals Clash Today

The first football game for the elimination in the Monongahela Valley championship is being staged this afternoon at the Page grounds between the Donora High school and the local High school teams. The Donora squad arrived early this afternoon with two hundred rooters to cheer them to victory and impromptu parades are being held on the main thoroughfares of the city preparatory to the game.

The local rooters lead by Cheer leader Weinberger met at the corner of Sixth street and Donner and marched to the grounds in a body with pennants flying and the old familiar High school yells ringing in the air. There promises to be a merry war between the rival rooters.

The coaches are well pleased with the practice being held this week and are confident that Monessen will come out victors when the contest ends. Donora has lost but one game in two seasons and are equally confident of gaining a victory.

New Lumber Company

Application has been made for a corporate charter for a new firm to be known as the Valley Lumber company which will open a general building and contracting business at Webster in a week or so. The incorporators are F. O. Brightwell and J. L. Hildrebrand of Fayette City, J. S. Rockwell of Lock No. 4 and C. M. Smith of Belle Vernon.

The new firm has purchased from Chas. A. Hawkins of York, Pa., the Birmingham property in Webster, which they will convert in a lumber yard and planing plant. They are at present ehgaged in the erection of the necessary buildings, installing equipment and stocking their plant.

Alleged Forgery

Requisition papers for F. J. Erbeck, member of the firm of Jones & Erbeck, Homestead, contracting engineers, wanted on a charge of forging the certification of the name of the cashier, of the Homestead Savings Bank, Homestead, were issued by Gov. Phillip today.

Several month ago the firm of Jones & Erbeck was awarded the construction of a large sewer in Milwaukee. Accompanying the bid was a check for $38,000, certified with the name of the cashier of the Homestead bank. Assistant City Attorney Williams discovered, it is alleged, that the name of the cashier of the bank had been forged.

Will Reside Here

Through the agency of J. C. Kenyon, W. M. Wasson, a well known Donora resident, sold his property to Frank Murray, an employe in the Donora mills. Mr. Wasson has been working at Monesesn for the past five years and grew tired of traveling back and forth. He has taken a house at No. 205 Knox avenue and removed his family to Monessen last Wednesday.

—Charles Chaplin in a fine comedy. "His Favorite Past Time." Clean and clean. Today at Olympic. 1t

—The Weston class of the M. E. Sunday school was pleasantly entertained last evening by Mrs. William Brandis at her home on Donner avenue. A lunch was served.

—The Luna theatre was purchased by Jake Bornstein at the recent Trustee sale. and he has turned the building over to a local man who expects to remodel the theatre and open it for business in the near future.

Good Speaker

The regular meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the new High school building last evening with a large attendance, and many matters of importance were taken up and given consideration. The new High school building was thrown open an hour before the meeting for public inspection, but unfortunately the electric lights were put out of commission and the building was lighted by gas.

Following the regular meeting of the organization, Erasmus Wilson, the "Quiet Observer" of the Gazette Times, addressed the assemblage in the auditorium of the building. His subject was of a civic nature and intensely interesting. Just before he began his address, the local Boy Scouts, headed by Scout Master Marshall entered the auditorium and marching down the aisle gave their yell and took seats in the front of the stage. The speaker paid them quite a compliment before beginning his address.

Meetings Interesting

The Rev. Dr. Max Wertheimer, the converted Jewish Rabbi, who is conducting revival services in the First Baptist church, gave a very inspiring address last night on "Heaven and How to Get There." The speaker said "it is utterly impossible today to reconcile all the different nonsensical ideas which are believed about Heaven. There are those who hold that heaven is a state, others equally positive say heaven is both a state and a place. Others again affirm that all the heaven we will have will be on this earth. While heaven is mentioned many times in the Bible, yet no positive statement has been made concerning the next world except by our Lord himself when informing the disciples of His departure from this earth. In heaven we will know each other, our knowledge will be increased, memory will be very active, happiness will be unbounded and sorrow done away with.

Tonight the subject will be "Hell." Some have an idea that there is no hell and no future punishment for the wicked. Come and hear one of the greatest Biblical scholars and expositors in America today prove what he says from the Scriptures and not from sentimentalism.

Will Support Ticket

Jesse Hancock, cashier of the Peoples National bank who was defeated for the nomination for County Treasurer, has announced that he will support the Republican ticket. Mr. Hancock and his friends made an honest fight as well as a clean fight, and every effort was put forth to win, but fates were against us and we bow to the will of the voters, believing in majority rule. Mr. Hancock now says that he will support the ticket as loyally as he would have expected others to do had he been nominated.

Those who know Mr. Hancock here, know him to respect him and we feel confident that all who became acquainted with him during his canvass, feel that in meeting him they became acquainted with a gentleman. He is qualified for the office in every way, and he has lived a life that commends him to any position. He never spoke or published an ill word about any of his opponents, and his defeat has caused general regret in this community.,

But his loyalty to the party shows the true character of the man. He will assist the Republican organization of Monessen to roll up a heavy vote for the straight ticket which we all hope will win by a big majority.

Make Final Effort

In a last effort to save or prolong the life of H. E. Filler, under sentence to die November 8, for murder in Westmoreland county, counsel representing Fuller yesterday argued a writ of habeas corpus in the United States District Court before Judge W. H. S. Thomson. A decision is expected today.

Filler's case already has gone to the United States Supreme Court on a petition in error and practically the same questions were argued in that proceeding as are raised in a new way by the habeas corpus writ. Attorneys for Filler say the jury was taken to the scene of the killing by the court bailiff without the knowledge of attorneys for either side and not accompanied by the defendant. This is alleged to have been a violation of Filler's rights.

Board Of Trade Sanctions Halloween Celebration Here

Monessen will have a Hallowe'en celebration. This fact was definitely settled at the meeting of the Board of Trade last evening, when the organization donated $60 for the event and selected a committee to secure prizes for the costumers. The Louhi band will be secured for the occasion and the masqueraders will march over the principal streets of the town, allowing the judges to select those entitled to the prizes.

The celebration will be held here Monday evening, so as not to interfere with the regular Saturday night activity in the business section of the town. Burgess Dunlap will probably head the parade. Jake Meyers is chairman of the prize committee and will ask the merchants to donate articles to be used as prizes for the evening. In addition to the merchandise prizes, there will be one cash prize of $10 and one of $5.00.

The advertising committee are getting posters printed to advertise the affair and everything will be done to keep Monessen people at home on that evening. The marchers will meet at the P. & L. E. freight station and the parade will start promptly at 8 o'clock this year.

New Pipe Organ

Manager McShaffrey has just installed the latest Wurlitze pipe organ orchestra in the Star theatre and will give the opening concert on this wonderful instrument Monday evening, at which time an expert player will be present, while W. P. Tenney of Pittsburgh will be the soloist.

The instrument has a high grade concert piano built for hard, professional usage with mandolin attachment. It plays cathedral chimes, human voice effect, horns, flutes, violins, cello stop dispason, xylophone and glickenspiel, snare drum, kettle drum, tom toms, castanets, fire gong, train effect, steamboat and bird whistles auto horn, tambourines and electric bells, horse trot triangle and cymbal.

It has an adjustable tremulant and swell pedal for tone control and expression, all of which in their various registrations and when unified represent a church organ of 10 combinations, orchestra of 16 combinations and snare drum and bass drum and 12 motion picture effects. It is the most expensive instrument of its kind and promises to be an added feature to this popular picture house.

Should Take a Hand

There should be some official action taken with regard to local assessments after the returns have been made by the assessors. What we mean by official action is through our town council or the Board of Trade. If this is not done, there will be many property owners who will not be given a square deal. Of course these bodies cannot act through any process of law, but they can act on behalf of property owners whose assessments are not in accordance with a reasonable schedule of values. The commissioners compose the highest authority in fixing values and a committee of council or the Board of Trade could take complaints that are just and ask for a modification of any unjust assessment, and this should be done. Sometimes an assessor without regard to future assessments will insist upon fixing a schedule of values for himself and will throw a burden upon one man. He argues that his oath sustains him in that course since he did not fix the assessments of all properties. He absolutely does not understand what he is supposed to do.

If the stability of this town is to be safeguarded, it must be done through a sane taxation. The method now in force is far from being sane. When you threaten the stability of a community, with burdensome taxation, you jar every institution. You scare real estate investors and destroy the confidence of capital. Away with the tax booster. He's worse for a community than a tax dodger.

Punish the Crooks

We do hope that our district attorney will purge that ill famed and rotten Hempfield No 5 district. We'll say he's a Daniel if he does the job right. That place has long been under suspicion It has been christened as Hovard's own pit, and politicians outside of the political combine have always "shied" at the place. It has been said that there are 24 independent voters in the place, that's all. Men who dare vote as they please and who do vote that way, but the other fellows are accused of being swayed by influences, or as the Socialist would put it "big business." We believe we have the boy in the district attorney's office who will put the crimp in the future plans of some political leaders who want the vote counted to suit them, regardless of the intent and purpose of the voter.

Now is a good time to house clean because we are told there are some would-be leaders in this county aspiring awful high and their ambitions are likely to soar above their honesty. If there are crooks in Hempfield No. 5 find them, and if any person tried to "deliver the vote," get him and send him where he belongs. Purge the ballot box and prosecute the crooks and bring old Hempfield No. 5 out before the world spotless in so far as her future is concerned. It ought to be a dangerous practice to "deliver the vote."

Bums Not Wanted

There are too many bums flocking to the town to suit the average person. Thank fortune, they don't find it a very fertile field, for Burgess Dunlap only gives the fellow a very short time in which to make good. If he is told to "beat it," that means he must get out of the town instanter, and if he stays around and tanks up again and gets back in the toils, he has to do labor on the streets.

Strange how proud, haughty and defiant some of them become when they are told they must work on the streets. It is beneath them to work. They are used to begging their way and they are far removed from toil, God's greatest opportunity given to mankind. If they straighten up and say they won't, the burgess straightens up and says "you will," and they generally do or go across for 30 days.

Archie has simply put the bum business on the bum in Monessen. Common drunks, crooks, gamblers and prostitutes are not harbored here They are no good in a community.

TO FAIR MINDED VOTERS

In their efforts to elect George B. Shaw as Common Pleas Judge, special stress is being laid by his supporters on the fact that Judge McConnell, if elected, may take advantage of the law which provides for the pensioning of Judges. In their arguments they have failed to cite the law in full, and deliberately have endeavored to deceive the voters. Pensions, payable by the State, are given in two instances:

First. A Judge, having served twenty-five consecutive years, may retire on half pay if he shall have attained the age of seventy years, but he must hold himself in readiness to try any cases that may be assigned to him.

Second. A Judge, incapacitated by reason of physical or mental disability, may retire on full pay for the remainder of his term.

The first provision of the law above cited may affect Judge McConnell, but there is little likelihood of his taking advantage of it. He now is barely over the sixty year mark, and his abstemiousness and regularity of habits have left him vigorous and capable of devoting many more years on the bench to the great credit of Westmoreland county.

But how about the other provision of the law? Which candidate for Judge is more likely to take advantage of it? Judge McConnell is a man of excellent health, even temperament, patient and considerate. Shaw is a man of nervous temperament and not likely to endure the strain of the work of the Common Pleas Court.

Contrast the two candidates and decide for yourself which one is more likely to ask the State for a pension on full pay. No more severe mental strain can be imposed than that which is exacted of the Judge who sits in judgment of the life, liberty, rights and property of his fellowmen.

Give Judge McConnell a fair show. Shaw's supporters are not doing it. They do not tell you that Shaw, if elected, could retire from the bench on full pay. They do not tell you that the salaries and pensions of Judges are paid out of the state tax and not out of county tax.

In a letter to the voters, Judge McConnell declares:

First. That he expects to serve the entire term.

Second. That all laws providing for pensions for Judges should be repealed because Judges have no more right to pensions than any other persons.

Judge McConnell has met the issue fairly; the voters should be fair with him.

The Proof is Here the Same as Everywhere

For those who seek relief from kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder ills, Doan's Kidney Pills offer hope of relief and the proof is here in Monessen the same as everywhere. Monessen people recommend Doan's, the kidney remedy used in America for fifty years. Why suffer? Why run the risk of dangerous kidney ills—fatal Bright's disease. Here's Monessen proof. Investigate it.

Mrs. J. Feightner, 133 Oneida street, Monessen, says: "I suffered from severe pains in my left side and across my back. I often had headacnes and dizzy spells and my appetite was poor. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the Hirsch Drug Co., although I had but little faith in them. I am glad that I did, for they did me a world of good. I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from kidney disorders."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Feightner had. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

The Broken Coin

A Story of Mystery and Adventure

By EMERSON HOUGH

From the Scenario by Grace Cunard

(Copyright, 1915, By Wright A. Patterson)

Novelized From the Motion Picture Drama of the Same Name. Produced by the Universal Film Manufacturing Company.

broken soil. He caught up a little bit of filmy lace—a kerchief whose perfume was familiar to him. He saw against the bark of a nearby tree a fragment of like lace, torn perhaps in some struggle.

"Yes, she was here."

Agitated, he hastened once more now to the palace door. He demanded of all whom he met where last they had seen the young American, but they could give no intelligent replies.

"Let me tell you, then," said Count Frederick in a flash of anger, "since you cannot learn for me. She has gone to Grahoffen—as a prisoner. Go there then, follow Sachio, as I have already ordered. The young American without question has been taken prisoner. We must rescue her. We must do that for every reason in the world—for her own safety and our own—

"And for my own peace of mind," he added sotto voce, as, haggard, he turned away to find such relief as he could in the countless duties which now were to devolve upon him amid the wreck of a government and the ruin of a city.

Although the forces of the king of Grahoffen had been worsted in strategy and had given their parole in order to save their lives in the flooded chambers of the dungeon levels, the kingdom itself, its ruler and its leading men seemed to feel little of the terror common with those actually defeated. Upon the contrary, old Cortislaw and his nobles were victims not so much of terror as chagrin. Neither were they disposed too scrupulously to observe their own plighted word, which had purchased life and liberty. Passing from the limits of the beleaguered capitol, they did not scorn to take such loot as lay at hand, or to carry with them such prisoners as pleased them. Among these latter it chanced that they had one more prisoner whose freedom might much have altered the course of events in this complex little drama.

Had Roleau, the doughty servant of Kitty Gray, been on hand at the time of the capitulation of the Grahoffen forces, no doubt he would have kept so close to his mistress as to guard against any such sudden surprise as had now left her at the mercy of her enemies. But Roleau, prisoner to Grahoffen, had no knowledge of any of the late stirring events, nor any knowledge of the whereabouts of his mistress.

The windows of the cell in which Roleau had been confined faced upon the corridor sometimes used by the retainers of the palace, less frequently by those persons of greater importance Roleau heard footsteps now, voices, the confusion of a large party arriving. He stepped close to the bars of his cell, pressed his face out, so that he might see. Upon his features any who had observed must have seen joy, exultation. For, though himself a prisoner, Roleau had seen now, down below there, the form of that mistress whom he served!

But Roleau was wise. He did not cry out. He did not shout in sudden greeting, as she passed among his captors Only he stood close and hoped that she would look up.

She did look up, and saw him standing there, and guessed his reason for silence—saw his sudden finger on lip demanding silence from herself as well. A flash of intelligence passed once more between the two.

"Well, well, my pretty one," taunted Sachio. "Welcome once more to our portals; and may you bide with us longer this time than last."

"We shall see," was her retort.

Sachio did not answer, but grimly led her on into the presence of King Cortislaw himself. Cortislaw was still furious in his chagrin at the defeat of his plans.

"So, again, mademoiselle!" said he, and his gray beard curled in his evil smile. "We have you once more. Believe us, it is the last time. You shall not escape again. Why is she here, Sachio?" he demanded—"How did you take her?"

"I found her as an angel disdaining the earth, your majesty," laughed Sachio, "spurning the ground—in short, safe, as she supposed, high in the branches of a tree! We pulled her out of that, and found in her possession something I had lost—this parchment your majesty."

Cortislaw examined it curiously. "What, another half-told tale?" said he—"'tis torn across."

"Yes," assented Sachio, "it is a mystery like that of the broken coin If my Latin serves me, it says something of a lost prince."

"You are very faithful, Sachio," said Cortislaw. "You are very faithful and very efficient. What do you say mademoiselle?"

"I say nothing," rejoined Kitty Gray and stood defiant.

Count Sachio spoke for her. "I am persuaded from the way she comports herself, your majesty, that she knows more than she pretends about this inscription here."

"So, then, you undertake to be obdurate?" The eye of Cortislaw was fixed on her with its cold menace.

"I am not obdurate, but I stand upon my rights," she went on. "I have not both the halves of the coin, and if I had I would not give you either. As to this inscription, I know nothing of it—this is the first time I have seen it."

"Take her away, men," said Sachio. "Keep her under guard. We will call you when we need you."

The door of the great reception hall closed now upon Kitty Gray, prisoner once again in Grahoffen towers.

"Well, what think you, Sachio?" said Cortislaw, turning at length to his officer. "She speaks with boldness."

"Yes, and always has," assented Sachio, musingly. "What is the secret of her courage? She seems to have no fear whatever for us."

"Listen, Sachio," said he. "We have made acquaintance with that young woman before, and have got no profit from the meeting. She is too mysterious, and she makes us too much trouble. Were there certain to be a reward for that, very well, but what reward may we hope? We dare not torture the truth from her, as once the king of this country would have done. Since she will not talk, and since we cannot compel her to talk, why, let us cast her into the discard as of no use to us."

"What is it your majesty means?" inquired the nobleman.

"Why should we trade in such small deer as this after all?" said Cortislaw. "We may well lose all our time and have only additional trouble for our pains. Certainly there are enough things to do. As for these larger troubles which she threatens—might we not well have a care? Well, then, let her have her way. Let us send her back to that country of which she talks—let us send her back whether she wishes to go or not!"

"As your majesty wishes," said Sachio gravely.

"Coome to me within the hour, Sachio," said Cortislaw, turning away. "Bring me the plan by which we can send her out of our country. Let it be soon, and good riddance of the viren as well."

"It shall be as you say, your majesty," said Sachio.

CHAPTER LVIII.

Travel Incognito.

Roleau paced his narrow cage like some restless wild beast, some half-formed plan in his mind. The time was at hand for his guards to bring him his midday food. He heard them approaching before long, four of them, all careless, singing some ribald ditty of the line and trench. He saw them open his door and enter, putting down the basin which held his meager prison fare. It was enough! The door of the cell was open

With a leap and a snarl of rage the powerful man was upon the guards, striking, wrestling, assailing here and there with such violence and such skill that soon the four were much at his mercy, taken altogether by surprise as they had been Once more boldness had proved successful. An instant and Roleau was past them, beyond the door, and in the hall before their scattered senses had time to realize what had happened.

As he fled, Roleau had no plan beyond that of mere flight. But it chanced that he reached the outer corridor just as Kitty's guards were bringing her into it. He fell likewise upon Kitty's guards with such desperate valor that before long they, too, were scattered and helpless. A moment later Kitty and Roleau fled, seeking some exit from the palace walls.

The hue and cry followed them now. Almost they had escaped, but not quite. Even at the great door of the palace itself they were apprehended by yet other armed men. Once more they were brought before the king.

"So it seems we have two incorrigibles," commented that monarch coldly as he faced Roleau and Kitty, still panting. "This man, as you know, Sachio, is far more dangerous than his accomplice here. She is dangerous, yes, in a way, but this man has hesitated at nothing—not even murder. What shall we do with him?"

Sachio stood also regarding the two. "I'll tell you, your majesty," said he at length, slowly, "if you ask me my own feeling in the matter Let us send them out of the country together. They have a way of gravitating together—let them go together to that America of which they talk so much. Let them find the protection of that Uncle Sam of whom they prate."

"Away with them!" command Cortislaw, imperiously.

Sachio therefore now had his task. But how to achieve it was his question. He knew well enough he could not oblige either Kitty or Roleau to book passage across the ocean unless they so desired.

"Attend to these two, lieutenant," said he to the officer of the guard. "Keep them safe until I return."

He hastened now as rapidly as he might to the water front, where at the somewhat restricted docks of Grahoffen an occasional ocean liner touched.

"You Shall Have Some Time to Reflect on the Expediency of Being More Complaisant."

He knew of such an instance now—a vessel of sorts was lying loaded and almost ready to sail. Perhaps chance would favor him.

He made his way across the crowded docks to the gangway of the steamer; but he sought no converse with the captain or the purser of the ship. Instead he beckoned to him one or two deck stewards, whom he selected after a quick look as countrymen of a land he knew.

a sale of unusual importance

women's coats $25.00

sale commences Tuesday, Oct. 26

We went to the makers of the Printzess Brand of Women's Apparel, known as "Distinction in Dress," and picked out 12 of their most stylish and best selling coats, and in consideration of a very large order we succeeded in bringing the price down to where we can conscientiously say for style, exclusiveness and distinctive modeling these are the handsomest coats shown this season.

A dozen smart styles to select from. Newest belted effects as well as the modish flaring and loose fitting models. Many fur trimmed styles. Coats of broadcloth, solid colors and two-tone Corduroys, Ripple Crepe, Wool Velour, Baby Lamb Cloth, Zibelines, Plushes and Novelty Mixtures. Coats that would sell in a regular way at from $30.00 to $37.50.

It will pay you to come a long distance to get these coats at the price

Inasmuch as we want it said that these coats are the handsomest and most stylish models ever shown at the price, we are going to place them on sale at $25.00.

All sizes in all materials—an early choice is advisable

OLYMPIC
HOME OF THE PIPE ORGAN

In short—Our next week's program:

MONDAY—The 17th part of "The Broken Coin" in two reels—"The Castaways." The sensational destruction of an ocean liner by a boiler explosion, the fight for life in the wreckage and the washing ashore of Kitty on a strange island, inhabited by savages. These are a few of the thrilling incidents of the 17th episode. "A Bath House Tragedy," L KO comedy with Peggy Pearch, 2 reels. "Some fix or Another." Nestor comedy with Ed Lyons and Lee Moran, and Mariana Laemles drama with Yona Landowska and Daddy Manley.

TUESDAY—The first Pathe feature in five reels "The Galloper," featuring Clifton Crawford, supported by Melville Stewart, Fania Marinoff and Rlye Alexander. Everyone of our patrons know what pictures the Pathe company produced. We had Pathe's "Exploits of Elaine," "New Exploits of Elaine" and "The Romance of Elaine" We had the 12 wonderful vital questions of mankind, "Who Pays?" and there was not even one subject on the entire Pathe program which was not fine. So with a full confidence we come right out and advise all our patrons to attend very close these Pathe productions. They are indeed everyone of them very instructive and pleasing. The next picture on Tuesday is "The Kiss of Dishonor," a Universal drama with Jane Nova and Ronald Bradburry. Also "Bashful Glen," a comedy.

WEDNESDAY— Another wonderful day, and when we say wonderful, we mean what we say, and we understand the meaning of the word wonderful thoroughly. We have at last after 36 weeks of wandering adventures, expenditures, expeditions and thrilling acts of the beautiful Pearl White, come to see her triumph and we will see the disclosure of the mysterous Mr. X. The last of this episode discloses a surprise. better relished on the screen. Suffice to say that it is a fitting end to one of the biggest and best serial pictures that ever delighted a fastidious public, and on the same day starts the first episode of the world's famous Pathe picture, by Balboa company, the same people who made the serial "Who Pays." The name of our next serial is "Neal of the Navy." It is an innovation in serial pictures, featuring Lillian Lorraine, beautful, and in the latest style of fashion, with William Courtlech, Jr., and a wonderful cast. It isn't possible to raise your hopes too high for this serial to satisfy you. On the same day, Wednesday, we have two more of the famous Universal comedies a Joker, "No Babies Allowed" with Max Asher and Gale Henry, and one of L KO's comedies, "Under New Management" a screaming comedy with the beauties, Gertrude Selby and Alice Howell, in two reels.

Thursday and Friday are so solid, so pure, that we can say very much about these days.

THURSDAY—Our great Broadway Universal feature "Judge Not," a great drama of western life, written by Peter B. Kyne, filmed in six great acts, featuring the Broadway Universal favorite, a beautiful and emotional actress, JULIA DEAN. The same day we have also two Universal comedies of high merit.

FRIDAY—Another wonderful day and guaranteed in every point. Popular Plays and Players present for the Metro company and they present for us, the virile American dramatic star, Emmet Corrigan in the story of a magnificient sacrifice "Greater Love Hath No Man" from the book by Frank L. Packard, in five acts. On the same day "A Kentucky Idyll," in two reels, featuring J. Warren Kerrigan, the famous actor; also one of Nestor's comedies "And the Best Man Won," featuring Billie Rhodes and Neil Burns.

SATURDAY—As usual the 23rd episode of "The Diamond From the Sky," full of thrills and adventures and wandering actions with the hope of winning the $10,000 offer. The next is "The Yellow Star." one of Bison's Universal features, the kind we have very Saturday. in three reels. Animated Weekly with the latest news and one very good comedy.

Now sit down, look over, think a little and certainly you will admit that the Olympic theatre in the small village, Monessen, in comparison with Pittsburgh, is one of the most complete theatres in America, comparing it only with Pittsburgh theatres, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago theatres, etc. And this is not boosting, bluffing or notorious advertising. It is the plain unvarnished truth. and nothing but the truth. Here it is and it can stand investigation and comparison at any time from any one if he is the queerest person living upon the face of the earth.—Olympic.

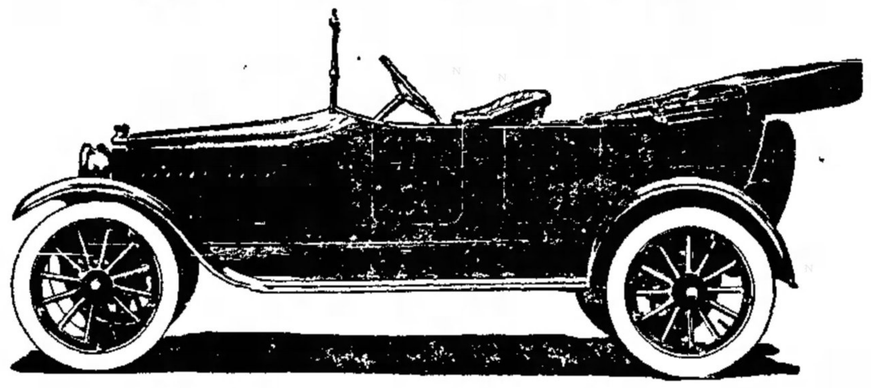
SAXON SIX

A big touring car for five people



Power of a locomotive

Mighty, resistless power that seems capable of sweeping you on and on forever—that's the first thing you feel when you sit behind the wheel of a Saxon "Six."

You sense it in the motors low, healthy purr You feel it in the steady, even pull as the car gets under way.

And then, when you step on the accelerator, what a revelation of power you get. The car leaps forward—eagerly, like a hound unleashed.

Speed is yours—as much as you want—with only the touch of the throttle. Hills are like level places You romp up steepest grades without the slightest feeling of effort.

Saxon "Six" has proved its hill-climbing ability on all the famous testing hills of the country. In the Stamford, Conn., Hill Climb, it took first place. Up the three-mile mountain road at Uniontown, Pa., it sped in 4 minutes and 4 seconds, defeating all cars in its price class and some that were higher priced. Ralph De Palma, the world's greatest racing driver, who competed said the showing of the Saxon "Six" at Uniontown was the most astounding performance he had ever seen.

In this great car the Saxon engineers have incorporated the most advanced ideas of motor car design:

High speed motor
Light weight
Yacht line body
Comfort for all passengers

Saxon high speed motor plus Saxon light weight is the combination that gives such wonderful power. Yacht line body gives the "Six" its striking beauty and style Ample room in both driver's seat and tonneau gives complete comfort for all pas-engers

Come in and see this splendid car. Let us prove to you its power and quality. In choosing your touring car don't be content with anything less than a "Six"

Six cylinder high-speed motor, 30-35 h p · yacht line body; electric starting and lighting; demountable rims, one man top; Timken axles; vanadium steel cantilever springs; 112" wheelbase; 32x3½" tires, non-skid in rear.
